Jesse Owens was a well-known athlete. He shot to stardom during the 1936 Summer Olympics in Germany where he won four gold medals.

When he was young, Owens was a frail child, but poor health during his early years did not hinder him from his passion – running. As he grew, he gradually increased in strength and speed.

Despite his success, he was never smug. Instead, he continued to inspire others for the duration of his life. He not only travelled round the world to promote the importance of sports to the young, but also started the Jesse Owens Games, a playground sports event for children.

Ministry of Education Singapore

A message from the organisers...

The Internet is widely used these days. We go online to do our homework, research on our projects, find out about the latest news as well as do our shopping. The Internet is also a place with no boundaries where we can meet and greet people from all over the world. However, are you aware of the dangers lurking online? Here is a true story taken from the news recently.

“She knew so much about me it was scary!
Then I realised...”

“This lady approached after school one day. She called my name, which was the first warning I had that something was wrong. I had never met her before but she seemed rather nice. She claimed that she was a friend of my mother’s. She asked me how the different members of my family were. She then offered to send me home. She was so nice that I accepted her offer until I saw a man in the car she led me to. I felt uncomfortable and quickly made an excuse and walked away. When I got home, I realised that all the things that the lady knew about me I had posted online.

- “Kelly”, 13 (not her real name)

This is just one of the many encounters of online predators. Thankfully, “Kelly” managed to get out of the situation and stayed safe. Others may not be so fortunate.

So how can we stay safe online?

Sign up and join us at the first ever ‘I am Cybersmart’ Exhibition now!

21. Based on the flyer, who is the main organiser of the 'I Am Cybersmart' Exhibition 2016?
- (1) ITopolis City Council
  - (2) Cyber Smartness Org
  - (3) Ministry of Education Singapore
  - (4) Cyber Safety Association Singapore
22. Based on the flyer, which of the following is true of the 'I Am Cybersmart' Exhibition 2016?
- (1) It is the first time the exhibition is being held.
  - (2) Mr Aisen Hauer will speak on all three days of the event.
  - (3) Participants must pay a fee of $10 to attend the exhibition.
  - (4) People who are interested to come may register on the day of the event.
23. According to Kelly's account, which of the following caused her to feel a sense of discomfort?
- (1) The lady offered to send her home.
  - (2) The lady claimed to be her mother's friend.
  - (3) The lady asked about her family and pet dog.
  - (4) The lady took her to a car with a man inside it.
24. From Kelly's encounter, what is not true about the stranger who approached her?
- (1) The lady got Kelly's details online.
  - (2) The lady targeted a victim of the opposite gender.
  - (3) The lady tried to be nice to Kelly during the meeting.
  - (4) The lady tried to get Kelly to go somewhere else with her.

Section E: Grammar Cloze (10 x 1 = 10 marks)

There are 10 blanks, numbered 29 to 38, in the passage below. From the list of words given, choose the most suitable word for each blank. Write its letter (A to Q) in the blanks. The letters (I) and (O) have been omitted in order to avoid confusion during marking.

USE ANY WORD ONCE ONLY

(A) as	(D) of	(G) for	(K) some	(N) many
(B) by	(E) so	(H) much	(L) before	(P) off
(C) on	(F) have	(J) between	(M) over	(Q) however

It has been more than two decades since the sale of chewing gum was banned in Singapore. When it was banned (29) _____ 3 January 1992, we became the laughing stock of the world. Today, (30) _____, Singapore seems to have had the last laugh. Train rides are (31) _____ safer and there is little chance of sitting on someone's used gum left on a seat. Gums stuck (32) _____ MRT train doors used to prevent them from closing fully. This, in turn, would cause disruptions.

A few generations of children (33) _____ grown up under the ban, but many are no strangers to chewing gum. Eight-year-old Iswa said, "My father bought us (34) _____ chewing gum when we went to Malaysia. A nice flavour came out (35) _____ I chewed it." Iswa knows chewing gum is not allowed in Singapore.

(36) _____ the years, there have been no cases of lifts being jammed with gum being unable to close because of chewing gum vandalism. Town council workers no longer have to scrape chewing gum (37) _____ pavements and outdoor seats.

Anyone convicted (38) _____ selling chewing gum in Singapore can be fined up to $2000. However, consuming it here is not an offence.

Section F: Editing (12 x 1 = 12 marks)

There are 12 questions, numbered 39 to 50, in the passage below. Each of the underlined words contain either a spelling or grammatical error. Write the correct word in the relevant box.

Skunks are actually nice little stinkers. When they are happy, they smell just fine.

However, they do not like be pushed around and they do not like anything bigger than they are. When skunks feel treatend, they have a not-so-secret weapon and they are not afraid to use it.

(40)

(41)

Let's say you are walking through the woods and you find yourself at a face-off with a skunk. Since you are a lot big than a skunk, the skunk naturally feels intimidated. The skunk stamps the ground with its tail. Its teeth chairters. After a while, the skunk will move on to fase two, raising its bushy tail, but the tip is still limp. What do you do?

(42)

(43)

(44)

(45)

(46)

Still too terified to move? When the tip of the tail stiffs, you have got your first warning. The trick is to move away when that happens. Now you are in real trouble. Arms with enough amunishen for four or five shots, the skunk lets lose an oily golden liquid.

(47)

(48)

(50)

These oily noxious liquid is so strong that it can make you sick to your stomach and cause temporary blindness if it gets in your eyes. Skunks have perfect aim.

Section G: Comprehension Cloze (15 x 1 = 15 marks)

Fill in each blank with a suitable word.

It was 1942. The Japanese had just invaded our village. My mother and I had been rounded (51)_____ with the other women and children, and were being sent off to a concentration camp. We encountered many cruel Japanese soldiers there but there was one (52)_____ I will never forget. His name was Takashi. He was different from the (53)_____.

One day, the toilets at the camp broke (54)_____. Some girls, aged between 15 and 25 and considered healthy (55)_____ to do the back-breaking jobs, were ordered to dig (56)_____ to be used as (57)_____ alternative. For months, we laboured in the trenches. It was hard work in the hot (58)_____, especially for those who had never done manual work and were malnourished.

Every day, we worked (59)_____ lunchtime while a Japanese soldier rested in the shade of a (60)_____, making sure we were not idle. Then one (61)_____, our usual guard did not turn up. In his (62)_____, came Takashi, small and insignificant. He did not recline under the tree as his predecessor had. He went around to all the trenches and tried to (63)_____ conversation with us. (64)_____, we could not speak Japanese and we could not (65)_____ his Malay.

At noon, we had an hour off for lunch. All we had to eat was dry tapioca bread. Takashi also ate his lunch, alone under his tree.

Section I: Comprehension Open-Ended (10 x 2 = 20 marks)

Read the following passage and answer questions 71 to 80.

One dollar and eighty-seven cents. That was all. Money hoarded one and two cents at a time by haggling with the grocer, vegetable man and butcher until one's cheeks burned with silent indignity. Della had also resisted buying herself any treats in order to buy a Christmas present for her husband, Jim. They were newly married and burdened with many expenses. She desperately wanted to get him something special, 5 something he would treasure.

As she stood in front of the mirror, caressing the beautiful, long auburn hair that hung over her shoulders, she was struck by an idea. She flung on her coat and marched out onto the street. Summoning up her courage, she pushed the door open and walked into a store that advertised 'Hair Goods of All Kinds'. "Will you buy my hair?" asked Della. 10 She took her hat off and let her thick, curly locks cascade down her back

"Twenty dollars," said the proprietress, lifting the mass with a practised hand. Della fought back her tears as the first lock fell to the floor. Nevertheless, once she had the money in her hand, the smile returned to her face and she skipped out of the shop to find a present for her beloved Jim. 15

She knew exactly what she was looking for. The one possession that her husband prized above all others was a gold watch that had been his father's and his grandfather's before him. Much as he loved it, he was still ashamed of using it in public because of the old leather strap he was forced to use in place of a watch chain. All he needed was a gold chain to complement the grandeur of the watch. 20

That evening, the moment Della heard Jim's footsteps on the stairs, she ran to the door. He stopped abruptly, his eyes fixed on Della. There was an expression in them that she could not read, and it terrified her. It was not anger, nor surprise, nor disapproval, nor horror, nor any of the sentiments that she had been prepared for. He simply stared at her fixedly with that peculiar expression on his face. 25

She ran towards him, crying, "Jim, I'm sorry, I'm sorry, but surely you still love me, don't you? I sold my hair. I sold it to buy you a present."

He reached into his pocket and withdrew a small parcel. "My darling, I love you, with or without your hair. Open your present and you will see why I had such a reaction."

Tearing open the parcel, Della greeted its contents with an ecstatic scream of joy, 30 which then turned into a wail as she touched her newly-shorn hair. Nestled in coloured paper was the set of combs that she had worshipped for a long time. Beautiful combs, pure tortoise shell, with jewelled rims, just the shade to wear in her long red hair.

With tears in her eyes, she turned to her husband and said tenderly, "My hair grows fast, Jim!" I will soon be able to wear them. I know how much they cost and I wonder how you were able to afford them. Now, give me your watch. I want to see how your new chain looks on it." 35

Instead of obeying, Jim smiled, "Della, let's put our Christmas presents away for now. We won't be able to use them for a while."
